

Mewar University and INSA Rennes sign MoU for faculty & student exchange program and joint courses

In its quest for excellence in education and research, Mewar University has added one more name of international repute to the list of Memorandums of Understanding (MoUs) that the University has signed so far. Mewar University signed an MoU with Institut National des Sciences Appliquées (INSA Rennes) for having Faculty & Student Exchange Programs as well as running joint educational programs.

Founded in 1966, INSA Rennes (<http://www.insa-rennes.fr>) is one of France's top Graduate Schools of Engineering. It enjoys an excellent reputation for the scientific courses it runs. INSA Rennes is a founder member of the European University of Brittany, having a research centre with six recognized laboratories and two doctoral schools. INSA Rennes has the joint authority to issue doctoral diplomas in seven research specialty options at Master's degree level. INSA Rennes has an active policy of receiving foreign students and engaging in international exchange programs.

Mewar University will start the following programs from July 2014 session in collaboration with INSA Rennes:

1. Faculty Exchange Program

2. Student Exchange Program

3. Dual Degree Program

4. Joint Research

5. Other Co-operation (including industry internship & on-the-job training)

Furthermore, the international reputation of INSA Rennes in terms of education, scientific expertise and research is exemplified by the numerous schemes, which have been established involving both teaching staff and students. The courses at INSA Rennes remain financially affordable.
